4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS WILL BE READY FOR 1941 STOCK SHOWS

The 4-H club boys and girls will be ready for April 3, 1941, and the fat stock show.

Experience has taught many of the clubbers that it is necessary to plan for the spring shows and sales long in advance if the best prices are to be received for their calves and they are to receive any recognition in the show ring.

The clubbers that already have their calf and feed on the "same side of the fence" are George Thomas Holloway, Clarence Graham, James Davis, Lamar Trappell, Delmar Cowart, Emory Lamb, G. R. Lee, DeVaughn Roberts, Delmas Rushing, Jr., J. C. Bule, Jr., Hinton Anderson, Hubert Hendrix, Wilson Groover, Billie Proctor, Herman Hendrix, Jim Hendrix, Toy Hollingsworth, Richard Flake, Richard Brannen, Jimmie Buncie, Linwell Anderson, Hazel Hotchkiss, Edgar Hagin and James Denmark.

Most of these sixty-nine calves are "home-grown," that were raised in the county. Additional calves are being procured each week. These clubbers will have approximately 100 calves on feed by Oct. 15 for next spring's showing and sale.

At the present these calves are running on the bean fields and being brought in at night by some dry feed. About frost, they will be taken to the hay lot where the feeds these clubbers have raised will be used to finish the cattle out. Generally, the dry lot feed consists of about three parts corn, ground cob, shuck and all, mixed with one part of vetch beans and about what hay the calves will eat added. Some of the clubbers use oats with their corn and beans. Others use cottonseed meal with their corn instead of beans.

FARM NEWS

FARMING SUGGESTIONS

Fourteen points designed to foster agronomy activities on the farm during October, November and December have been recommended for Georgia farmers by E. D. Alexander, extension agronomist. Sowing of oats, wheat and barley for grain was foremost among the suggestions of Mr. Alexander. Sowing of rye for both grain and soil improvement and planting of small grain-winter legume mixtures for hay and grazing were advised.

NATIONAL POULTRY PLAN

Poultry-improvement work under the National Poultry Improvement plan has expanded steadily since the launching of the co-operative federal-state program in 1935. The fifth annual report on participation for the season 1939-40 shows extension gains since the first year. Increases from 34 to 44 in number of co-operating states, from 1,017 to 2,192 in number of hatcheries under the plan, from thirty-eight to more than ninety million in number in breeding birds, and from two to nearly nine

COTTON MILL CONSUMPTION

A new high record of cotton mill consumption, totaling more than eight million bales during the year ending July 31, next, has been indicated by the bureau of agricultural economics in its monthly analysis of the cotton situation. In contrast to this very favorable domestic consumption outlook, a continuing decline in the rate of cotton exports, adjusted to allow for seasonal variations, would give

NATION'S FOREST FIRES

More than half of the nation's forest fires, nearly 50 per cent, of the area burned, and three-fourths of the damage are reported on 26 per cent. of United States forest land which still lacks organized protection, according to the forest service. Out of 585,422,000 acres of forest land needing it, the forest service reports that 152,167,000 acres are still without organized fire protection. More than 17 per cent of that area was burned over last year, while less than 1 per cent of the protected area suffered fire damage.

The Need for Pipe Lines

Economic Advantages to Georgia

There are many reasons why Georgia should welcome within its borders any private enterprise which is legitimate and which has proved itself capable and efficient. Consider some of the striking points about pipe line companies as compared with other transportation companies:

- 1.—Pipe lines are built by private capital and are developed without land grants or other public subsidies.
- 2.—This capital has actually been used economically and for pipe line construction.
- 3.—Pipe lines have materially reduced transportation costs.

Pipe Line Savings

There are at present more than one hundred twenty-two thousand (122,000) miles of pipe lines used in transporting oil products in the United States. These lines resulted from the efforts of the oil industry to reduce costs and provide efficient transportation. Reliable figures establish that the oil companies, by improved and more economical transportation facilities, have saved the American consumer during the past ten years more than eighty million dollars ($80,000,000).

Taking figures of the Oil and Gas Journal on the tank wagon price of gasoline in fifty cities of the United States, and figures of the United States Bureau of Labor on prices paid by wage earners in 32 large cities, it is established that the decline in the price of gasoline over a period of 18 years is 20.8 per cent MORE than the decline in the prices of other commodities which wage earners buy.

Here is a brief quote from the editorial columns of the Camilla, Ga., Enterprise:

"Boiled down to reality, the argument (against pipe lines) is that the use of pipe lines would permit delivery of both crude oil and gasoline to consumers at lower prices than now are possible.

"To us, that does not seem a crime."
